PLEASE NOTE: The Archdiocese of Santa Fe has implemented the VIRTUS program; an internationally known & well respected best practices platform for Safe Environment training. This prevention training is available online and in-person. It is a comprehensive training that specializes in assisting Churches and religious organizations in creating safe environments for children and vulnerable adults. The primary course, Protecting God's Children, assists the Church in its efforts to recognize and prevent child sexual abuse. As a community of faith, we believe that the prevention of child sexual abuse begins with each person. Increased awareness and willingness to take action are steps for every person to take to eliminate abuse in our society, community, neighborhoods and in our family. All those who minister, employees and volunteers, in the Archdiocese of Santa Fe will be educated about the nature of child sexual abuse, how it is perpetrated, strategies for prevention, and reporting. The Protecting God's Children Online Awareness Session course includes a code of conduct and a background check. It will take approximately one hour in length and provides a downloadable certificate at the end of the session.

To access the program go to the Archdiocese website www.archdiosf.org and click on the Virtus link. Everyone is required to register for both the on-line or in person sessions. Any question, please call the Safe Environment office - 831-8144.

Q Some people say that living together before marriage helps you be more certain that a couple will get along when they are married. It seems logical, but my parents and priest do not approve. Wouldn't marriages be better if couples lived together before they married?

A It might seem logical but actually living together before marriage diminishes your chances of success. Several people have examined the success rate and found that couples who are together before marriage do not do as well as couples who don't. Why? People will attribute it to many things, but I would offer this: Love is essentially a choice. We choose to spend time together, to get to know one another, to share ourselves and our interests. Bonds of love and friendship are built and strengthened because of our choosing to separate and come together again. A good example of this is the life of priests. While priests are assigned together at the same parish, they might very well become good friends. They share the same mission, living space and concerns. But sometimes when one is transferred, they do not speak for months or even longer. Why? There was no choice. The relationship was built on things other than interpersonal relationship. Couples who are together can show, through the process of developing the interpersonal and intimate bond that is the basis of a marriage and end up unknowingly building their relationship on common tasks, shared living space, and financial interdependence. Time, repetition, choice and love are all part of building a marital bond.

19TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME: Consider the variety of ways we use the word "service" to describe the work of different people. Those who work in government are said to have given themselves to public service. Members of the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marines are all part of the armed services. Hotel and restaurant employees are said to work in the service industries, along with barbers, hair dressers, flight attendants, and entertainers, although it is a bit of a stretch to imagine folks like Jimmy Kimmel, Jay Leno, or Stephen Colbert in the same category as the hotel housekeeping staff. Every one of these service-oriented groups also has its caricature of the lazy, inefficient provider. There's the often joked about drivers' license examiner. There's Beetle Bailey of cartoon fame. And comedy skits about airline stewardesses or hotel maids abound. Yet all of these professions continue to distinguish themselves, despite the occasional "bad apple" that may turn up. In the Gospel this weekend Jesus makes it clear that a servant (that is, a believer) must be constantly vigilant. Peter asked directly, "Is the parable meant for us or for everyone?" Jesus didn't answer him directly, but went on to add another parable describing the prudent, industrious servant and the lazy one. We do not know when the Lord will return, and so we cannot rest on our laurels as though one good deed or one proclamation of the Gospel is enough. Yes, we have our employment, our family, our personal needs that we must attend to. But we are also servants of the Lord. When we get up in the morning, while we are preparing for the day and running through in our heads the list of everything we must accomplish that day, one of the things we can ask ourselves is, "What kind of a servant of God am I going to be today?" That can give us a sense of what can guide our actions as we work through the day.
